Food donations sought to help residents who remain without power

The Indiana Office of Faith Based and Community Initiatives is asking Central Indiana residents to donate food to help feed Hoosiers in Jefferson and Jennings counties. Many residents in these counties have been without power since Sunday, when the remnants of Hurricane Ike moved over Indiana.

People may drop off non-perishable food items, such as peanut butter, canned meat, canned vegetables, canned beans and baby formula, to the Midwest Food Bank at 6450 South Belmont Avenue, in Indianapolis, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. EDT, Monday through Friday. It is requested that no glass containers be dropped off. To contact Midwest Food Bank, call 317.786.8980 or visit <http://www.midwestfoodbank.org> <<http://www.midwestfoodbank.org>> .
